TORY ROOZE FOR HER CARGO

Steamer Alert Used in Victoria By-Election.

POSTOFFICE ABUSE

Great Loads of Whikeynis Chateaugay Election.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—It will be fitting for the Speaker of the House and his party following to transfer the vocabulary of invective which they have for years devoted to the exploits of the Tories and the Ministry of the House to its all too forcible to the 1914 exploits of the Borden Government steamer Alert, declared Mr. E. M. Macdonald of Pictou, in concluding the Parliament of the House of Commons last week. Mr. P. W. Carrol's charges of last week. Mr. Macdonald summarized the facts in the first of a series of revelations which opposition members propose to bring before the House. The revenue steamer Alert had been taken for her route, sent into waters in which she had no business, and where there was no possibility of smuggling. She was where she had been loaded with whiskey and other intoxicating liquors in direct violation of the provisions of the act, and became the private yacht of the Conservative organizer and the Conservative candidate in the pending by-election at Victoria, Nova Scotia, to support their friends and enlist supporters.

Mr. Carrol pursued his demand for some explanation or report from the Government when the customs estimates were under consideration. When the matter was before the House last week, Hon. Mr. Reid, Minister of Customs, was declared by his colleagues, Hon. Mr. Hazen, to be the Minister responsible for the steamer Alert. He was in his official capacity, and the former promised to look into the matter. As no report had been received from the Cape Breton man, reinforced by Mr. A. K. Macdonald, of Halifax, renewed his charges and demanded the resignation of the Minister's inquiry, if he had not really been made.

Hon. Mr. Reid flatly admitted that the vessel had been employed in the manner charged. He said the Alert had no doubt been taken upon her regular business, and had simply taken the Conservatives in question as passengers. As to the conveyance of the liquor, the Minister said he had to do with the word of his officials on the spot. He would, however, "look into it."

Mr. Macdonald said that the Minister's answer was not the result of the very serious scandal. Mr. Macdonald demanded an unequivocal answer, and in response to his series of definite demands Hon. Mr. Reid said he would look into the matter, and would issue a full investigation, to look into the records of officials who had been on the steamer since Dec. 1 last, and to deal with and discipline the men responsible with "plow."

ANOTHER SERIOUS CLEAR

No sooner was the story of the Alert completed than another story to the discredit of the Government was told. This one dealt with the election officers of a Government in the Chateaugay, Chateaugay and in the Quebec Provincial riding of Huntingdon.

"We are prepared to prove in the courts," said Mr. James A. Robb, the Liberal member for Huntingdon, "that an employee of this Government, who has been in the office of the Minister of the Interior, operated in the by-election in the county of Huntingdon in the interests of the Government candidate. We have the evidence, and are prepared to prove that this man was distributing 'green goods' and whiskey opposite a polling booth on election day."

"It may possibly be an officer in the Italian navy," Mr. Robb continued, "that he was on his holidays at the time, but whether or not that is true, it is also true that one month later, the same man was operating in the interests of the Government in the interests of the Tory candidate there."

"The Government is now claiming the result in Chateaugay as a great victory for its naval policy. The trade policy," Mr. Robb said, "on 'out in view of the fact that the Government candidate in Chateaugay is in the naval question, and that the Postmaster-General, when he spoke at Ottawa, admitted that he was in the view of the conduct of officials of the Government, my friends opposite will have to retract from their claim."

At this point Hon. Mr. Crofters replied to come to the rescue of the Ministry. "There may be some of our own personal knowledge, or from hearsay, when he makes the charge concerning a Government official?" he asked.

"We have the evidence of a man who was sent out with two witnesses to watch, and caught the official in the act," said Mr. Robb.

No further attempts at meeting Mr. Robb's charge were made by the Government. The Minister of the Interior, Mr. Crofters, clearly and emphatically, but, though several Ministers were present, without effect, at the time, it went absolutely unmet.

ABUSE OF POST-OFFICE

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Members of Parliament received through the House of Commons yesterday the following carefully selected and carefully chosen various printed pamphlets of the Postmaster-General, which were a portion of the commitment, which under the regulation were neither stamped nor franked, and which were sent to Ottawa, while another portion of it had been mailed at Montreal.

The printed contents were of varied character. They included a circular on religious, both Protestant and Catholic, and an alleged expose of the conduct of Catholic priests in the United States and of the management of Catholic convents and Protestant seminaries for the education of the young.

When the House met this afternoon Hon. Mr. Lemieux directed attention to the matter, and asked the Postmaster-General to conduct an inquiry as to the use of the mails for despatching obscene and blasphemous literature without postage of frank and asked the Speaker

HE MAY GET BACK

An Inside Story of Some County Council Business.

Why was Councillor Ray derided from the Joint Court House Committee, and Councillor Vance substituted? That question has been asked a number of times since Monday when no satisfactory answer has yet been made public. It might be explained that the Joint Committee is one of the best of the business. When the change was made of the committee prepared by the Striking Committee, it was stated that the committee should have as a member, an experienced councillor, who could look after the interests of the county business. That meant that Ray was regarded as a strong one, in that Councillor Ray was for four years a member of the Joint Committee, and always handled the affairs exceedingly well.

The latest explanation leaked out yesterday afternoon, and this morning was made public. In fact several of the councillors were "kidded" about the "deal" even in the council chamber.

Had Councillor Ray not signified his intention to resign, the committee meeting Monday morning and also of voting for Councillor Goss for the wardenship, there would have been no meeting, and a warden would not yet have been elected. The Conservatives had decided to caucus held early Monday morning to remain away until Councillor Gallagher could attend so that a Conservative could be elected warden. Councillor Ray was approached, he not having attended the caucus but he objected to the proposal and the Tories bowed to his will. When Mr. Ray attended the meeting, there was a general opinion that the whole bunch of Tories decided to attend. The best they could do was to defeat Councillor Goss and Councillor Bertram as warden and then take it out of Councillor Ray afterward.

They succeeded. There was no meeting. Councillor Ray would rather have been on than the go was kept off, and appointing him to another committee instead was not in his wounded feelings. It was leaving him on the fire, adding insult to injury.

Councillor Ray has not been backward in refusing the advice as the reason for it all. In fact he has made the declarations openly and determinedly some time, more scores will be paid.

CROWN PRINCE, AGED NINE, JOINS NAVY

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The text of the bill introduced in Parliament by General Jan Smuts, Minister of Defence and Finance, indemnifying the Government for the loss of the Crown Prince, is published here today. It indemnifies the Government for the loss of the Crown Prince, the Governor-General, and the Government for all their acts throughout South Africa from January 31, which was a week prior to the proclamation of martial law.

Hon. Mr. Reid flatly admitted that the vessel had been employed in the manner charged. He said the Alert had no doubt been taken upon her regular business, and had simply taken the Conservatives in question as passengers. As to the conveyance of the liquor, the Minister said he had to do with the word of his officials on the spot. He would, however, "look into it."

WINSLOR

The many friends of Mr. Philip Winslow are sorry to hear that he is not becoming very rapidly.

There was a full attendance at the meeting on Sunday to hear the discourse on "Winds: Knowing and Doing."

LOAN OF RIFLES

Proposed to Settle the Bisle-Lilly Difficulty.

EVER READY TO AID

Says Hon. Martin Burrell to Stock Men.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The new rule regarding the Bisle matches and the trouble which they have engendered is not nearing adjustment, in fact as far as the Minister of Militia, if they are maintained no Canadian team will go over this year. Yesterday the Minister received a cable from the National Rifle Association stating that it would like to send over a representative with a view of negotiating a compromise. Col. Hughes answered that this was useless, as the rifle might be changed, he offered, however, to stand over by way of loan sufficient Canadian rifles with the rear sight sight to accommodate every territorial and regular who propose to compete at Bisle. Under no circumstances, he stated, will the open sight be reverted to.

On the question of finance, the Minister said that every Government should give wide and generous assistance along proper lines. Of what ever political complexion, Governments were bound sooner or later to embark on a great scheme in aid of agriculture. The live stock industry is one of the greatest important to the whole body politic. The Finance Minister was always ready to give aid in any form, but before great schemes were embarked on every side of the questions must be heard.

Hon. George Graham, in proposing the toast of "The Farmer," will say that the best kind of agriculture was the Dominion of Canada was to be issued today. It was the first sign of the whole Canadian press, so that the issue could meet fully and officially disseminate agricultural news than hitherto.

Township Thinks the City Should Pay the Most.

At the regular meeting of the Works Committee Deputy Mayor Barton, on behalf of the township, asked the city to pay the most for the steps from Nelson to the city, and what percentage of the cost should be borne by the city. The committee proposed to pay over the $1,100, the city to pay $1,100, and the township to pay $1,100. The chairman, Ald. Burrell, said that the city should pay the most for the steps from Nelson to the city, and what percentage of the cost should be borne by the city. The committee proposed to pay over the $1,100, the city to pay $1,100, and the township to pay $1,100.

LATE MRS. BRISTOL

Widow of Late Rev. Bernice Bristol Dead

One of the oldest and best known residents of Ancaster township passed away yesterday in the person of Mrs. Bernice Bristol, widow of the late Rev. Bernice Bristol, for many years a Methodist minister in the Hamilton conference. Mrs. Bristol was born close to the Ancaster and Beverly dividing line 32 years ago. She was a daughter of the late Mr. John VanSickle, one of the pioneers of Beverly township. She married Rev. Bernice Bristol when a young woman, and for the past 30 years had lived at Jerseyville. She is survived by a family of four, one son, Emerson B. Bristol, of Jerseyville, with whom she lived, and three daughters, Mrs. James P. Miller, of Vancouver, and Mrs. Ella Barclay, of Buffalo. James VanSickle, of Palermo, is a brother of deceased; also Robert VanSickle, of Buffalo.

Ambassador Page May Go to Paris

Paris—Rumor has it that Thomas Nelson Page, author, now U. S. Ambassador, is expected to go to Paris to replace Myron T. Herrick. It has been tradition for the U. S. ambassador to be a financier, but President Wilson, it is said, is anxious to give the post to a literary man.

The Confessions of a Wife

Suffragette or Sufferer—Which?

CHAPTER LXIX.
"It is people like the Smythes, Dick," I said after they had left, "who make me look upon the future of all married life with fear and trembling."
"Smythe is a bore," acquiesced Dick. "His ideal of a woman is a nice, cuddly, dollie, to be played with, petted, dressed and adored by the mood takes him. He is not in the mood to take a woman as a woman, but as a plaything. He has really quite as much respect and admiration for a woman as a Turk. He does not want his wife or any other woman to be a comrade—when he wants that he seeks masculine society."

"When he discusses war, politics, or anything else that can be done without the introduction of sex he prefers to me a companion every time. Woman to him must always be surrounded, in his mind, with saccharine smiles and sweet smiles. I can see that the woman who appeals to him must be senseless in the realm of intellect."

"I wonder how, in the name of pity, poor little Mrs. Smythe came to appeal to him in any way," said Dick, with a laugh. "She is as nearly a nonentity as any woman I have ever seen."

"Any woman would have to be come that if she lived with that kind of a man long. Poor thing! How she must have suffered to have reached this state of acquiescence!"
Dick looked at me queerly and then he repeated my remark to Smythe earlier in the evening and said: "So you don't intend to be a sufferer, Mrs.?"

"Of course not; do you?"
Dick looked much surprised at the idea that anyone should ask a man to be a sufferer voluntarily, and then he answered: "You bet I not, I've no ambition to be a sufferer."

LITTLE DISCUSSIONS OF LOVE AND MARRIAGE

BY BARBARA BOYD

Woman's Poor Health

"I heard a doctor make a statement today that to me was amazing," said the Bachelor Girl.
"What was it? That every one on his books had paid his bill?"
"No," laughed the Bachelor Girl, "though that would be remarkable. He said that in all his long career—and he is retired now—he had never met a perfectly healthy woman."

"Of course not," scoffed the Bachelor. "It isn't the whole who need a physician, but the sick. Healthy women would go to him."

"I know that. But he didn't mean it just professionally. I suppose a doctor can tell, to some extent, just by looking at a woman whether she is perfectly well or not. He can tell by her color and the look of her eyes, and her voice, and her lips, and he means that, socially and in other ways, he can tell the state of her health. I think it is appalling."

"Now that you bring it to mind, I remember hearing a merchant say that the reason women weren't paid the same wages as men was because of women's poor health. He said that if they were paid the same as men, men would be employed. He said 'women were always losing time because of headaches and various minor ills, so that an employer couldn't afford to pay them the same as men.'"

"And when I think of the women I know, nearly every one has something or other the matter with her. And yet when you consider what this means in case a woman marries, it is not very pleasant to contemplate, is it? Sickiness is a fearful handicap in married life."

"That's all," agreed the Bachelor. "I have a cousin who has a semi-invalid wife. And what that fellow pays out in the way of doctor's bills, and what he's up against in the home, when his wife is sick for a week or two, every little while, is enough to make most of us conclude that marriage is a failure. Don't misunderstand me. He doesn't complain. He doesn't grumble. He doesn't keep his nose to the grindstone and seeing life all gray, instead of occasionally glimpsing a bit of rose."

"That's all," agreed the Bachelor Girl. "When you think of a pallid-faced case coming home, it seems to me the first thing women ought to do is to bring about a better physical standard for themselves. I do not think they actually realize the joy that comes from good health, nor what invalidism and drugs and doctor's bills mean—especially if they have a busy to care for—or they would get busy and become healthier."

"A good many are struggling for health, but they don't achieve it. It is not always to be had for the asking. 'Well, you know my crowd,' returned the Bachelor Girl brightly, 'believe in health. I think it. I know it. And that state of mind in my reality.'"

Gossip of Wall Street

(Supplied by H. P. Coleman, 19 King street west.)

New York, Feb. 4.—Wednesday's market should witness special bullish operations on a moderate scale. Efforts on the part of professionals to bring about reactions of more than a point or two fail on account of fact that technical position in better than surface indications.

The market is generally strong, with the stock market technique in the absorption of the market. By investors, who are continuing to buy good securities. The floating supply has been materially reduced.

When the professional speculative element tries to force down prices following moderate overbought conditions, it is found from institutional and individual sources. Under the circumstances there is little prospect of a sharp decline.

MONEY PLENTIFUL; DISCOUNT FIRMER

(By Times Special Cable.)

London, Feb. 4.—Commodities were the feature of the trading on the Exchange to-day. They were generally active, with vigorous investment buying and bear selling, and close to a quarter below the last. The other big gold shares and rubber and mining stocks were also active, with the former showing a slight advance and the latter a decline.

In the afternoon Canadian Pacific improved, while the rest of the list of American securities continued to sag and closed underweight. Money was plentiful and discount rates were firmer.
